

De Colores, Brothers & Sisters,

I ran across a prayer written by Chad Bird, one of my favorite theologians, and it reminds me of the many people I have been blessed to serve and serve alongside of in my life.

“Let us thank God for all the ordinary Christians who daily love their neighbors and live by faith in the resurrected Christ.

They are the secret and sacred agents in the kingdom of God. The world will never know them, and it’s much better that way.

They work openly, yet in secret, in small acts of self-sacrifice that subvert the reigning egocentric ethos of a world saturated with emotion and dry of truth.

They consider others more important than themselves. They make it their ambition to lead quiet lives. And they raise their children to believe a life well lived is in the pursuit of serving others.

They daily pray, confess their sins, and cast themselves upon the mercy of Christ. He forgives and raises them up to forgive others, to show mercy, to speak the truth in love.

No one will reward them or applaud them. Nor do they seek such recognition.

They are simply living as children of God, content with his approval in Christ.

Their lives are an ongoing doxology whispered in holy anonymity while passing through this dying world on the way to resurrection.”

God bless you all, Pastor Dani Jo Bierwagen

Write up your palanca early!!!
Please label the Palanca with full names, for each day you want it delivered & if it is for the Guests, Palanca, or Rollos.

UPCOMING!!!

Attention All Team & Palanca:

Practice Meetings

Saturday, September 13th -- 9:00 am start
Morningside Lutheran Church – Sioux City IA
ALSO...

Saturday, October 4th – 9:00 am start
Swan Lake Christian Camp

- TEC Weekend: May 30 -June 1, 2025 @ Sioux City, IA

- TEC Weekend: October 31-November 2, 2025 @ Yankton, SD
-